LANDON SAYS NEW DEAL IDEAS ARE 'COCKEYED'

Republican Candidate Blasts
1936 Campaign Out
Of Doldrums

RAPS AT EXPENDITURES

Democratic Promiser of No
Additional Tax Draws
Ripping Criticism

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 27 — (UP)—Republican and Democratic presidential candidates sped West today to confront each other face to face, while Gov. Alf M. Landon's assault on "cockeyed" New Deal tax legislation blasted the 1936 campaign out of the doldrums.

Speaking here in the wind-up of his first campaign tour, Gov. Landon pledged repeal of the "ill-advised" 1936 Roosevelt tax act and pledged himself to tax reform. He cited the administration for waste, extravagance and absurdities.

The Republican candidate recommended that government reduce "hidden" taxes and derive most of its revenue from direct levies on corporate and individual income. He said the time had come for a simple, honest system of book-keeping in Washington and warned that the nation was living now in a fool's paradise and beyond its means. The entire federal and state tax system, he said, should be overhauled.

Raps Tax Program

Ridiculing suggestions that the rich will pay the Roosevelt bill, he said confiscation of all incomes over $5,000 would not now pay the cost of government.

Governor Landon left last night for Topeka after addressing a crowd estimated by police at 25,000.

MURDERED GIRL FOR MEANNESS, YOUTH ADMITS

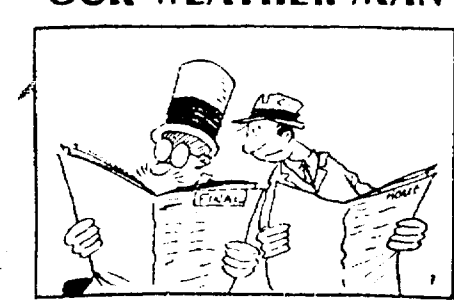

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 27 — (UP)—Joe Ardy, 21, who confessed attacking and killing 15-year-old Dorothy Drain in Pueblo, Colo., eleven days ago, did it "just for meanness," officers quoted him as saying today.

Ardy was captured in railroad yards here. Officers said when they found him he appeared dazed and was muttering unintelligibly.

He confessed to Sheriff George Carroll that he killed Dorothy and wounded her sister, Barbara, 12, when he found them sleeping in their home at Pueblo.

The two little girls were beaten with an axe about the head. The crime was discovered by their parents early in the morning when they returned home from a dance.

LANDON BLAST DRAWS REPLY BY MORGENTHAU

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—(UP)—Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., today replied to Gov. Alf M. Landon's attack on the administration's fiscal policy with an assertion that treasury policy "has met with the approval of the country."

Morgenthau showed reporters a two-paragraph reply to Landon that he had scrawled in his handwriting.

The statement said:

"The policy being pursued by the United States treasury has met with the approval of the country."

"The acid test of it is the government bond market."

Morgenthau would not amplify on his statement but he remarked that he had looked at the bond market quotations and then he said:

"After seeing them, I guess there is no cause for alarm."

Morgenthau disclosed that he will confer with the open market committee of the federal reserve system here next Wednesday regarding the treasury's $514,000,000 mid-September financing program.

It was indicated in informed circles that the treasury would pay the maturing obligations in cash from its present nearly $2,000,000,000 cash balance as a show of confidence in improving conditions instead of asking for new money or issuing new securities.

FIVE DROWN AS TRUCK PLUNGES INTO RIVER

CONOWINGO, Md., Aug. 27—(UP)—Five men were drowned today when a heavy truck plunged from the Conowingo dam into the Susquehanna river.

State police headquarters here said that five bodies had been recovered, and that "two or three more" were feared dying.

Twenty-two men were believed in the truck when, rolling over a slippery highway, it swerved from the road which runs over the top of the dam.

None of the men was identified. Some of the injured were taken to a hospital at Elkton, Md., and to nearby doctors' offices.

MARCY WARNS WPA WORKERS ON VIOLATIONS

D. H. Marcy, county relief director, issued warnings to WPA workers Thursday on three regulations that will be enforced by his department.

The regulations are:

1. Any person employed on WPA who does not use his earnings to support dependents in the case under which he is working is subject to dismissal.

2. Any person employed on WPA who refuses private employment at the prevailing wage in this county is subject to dismissal.

3. When two or more WPA families are living under one roof they must keep separate households or they will be considered one family and only one person may work on WPA.

Mr. Marcy said he received several complaints recently on WPA workers. All reports will be investigated by the relief department.

AGE PENSIONERS PLAN TO FORM LOCAL SOCIETY

Organization of a Pickaway County Old-Age Pension society will be the purpose of a meeting to be held in the Memorial hall, Sept. 4 at 1:30 p. m.

Announcement of the meeting was made Thursday by T. J. Johnson, Columbus, president of the Franklin county society. Mr. Johnson is organizing societies throughout central Ohio counties and hopes to build a state organization.

Residents receiving pensions or eligible to receive them are invited to the meeting. The speakers will be Mr. Johnson and George H. Clark, chairman of the legislative and publicity department of the Franklin county society.

GUN MAKING FOR STRIKE USE STIRS SENATE

Arms Manufacturers Face Investigation Mapped By Liberties Committee

LAFOLLETTE HEADS QUIZ

Interference With Rights Of Labor to Organize Alleged At Capital

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—(UP)—The senate civil liberties committee is preparing to serve subpoenas on arms manufacturers believed to be outfitting strike breakers, it was learned today.

A special undercover investigation has just been started in several industrial cities preliminary to the issuance of new subpoenas in the inquiry into interference with the rights of labor to organize, officials disclosed.

Only those munitions firms believed to be closely allied with strikebreaking will be affected by this move, it was stated. However, it was said the inquiry might eventually touch some of the largest arms makers in the country.

Evidence Accumulated

Committee investigators said they have accumulated evidence indicating some of these firms have sold arms for use in labor disputes. At the same time an entirely new industry was discovered—the manufacture of weapons designed especially for use in labor warfare. Typical was the finding of a gas-machine-gun said by committee officials to have been especially built to protect "scab" labor during strikes and to break up picket lines.

The present investigation is being conducted by a committee headed by Sen. Robert M. La Follette, (Prog.) Wis. The only other member is Sen. Elbert Thomas, (D), Utah.

The purpose of the La Follette inquiry is to expose the methods and use of strikebreaking with a view to recommendations for strengthening federal statutes designed to curb it. It has been revealed that modification of at least five existing laws will probably be suggested to congress by the committee.

Plan General Quiz

The La Follette committee also is laying the groundwork for a wholesale investigation of "un-American organizations." This would include inquiries into the activities of secret societies and other bodies preaching anti-semitism.

SPANISH PORTS' PAPER BLOCKADE IGNORED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—(UP)—Rejecting a Spanish government "paper blockade" of rebel ports, the United States today reaffirmed its historic policy of freedom of the seas.

American merchant ships will continue to enter Spanish ports held by rebels until "an effective blockade" is laid down, the state department said in reply to a Spanish government warning.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in a firm note to the Spanish government, said this government "cannot admit the legality" of a Spanish order declaring rebel and certain other ports "war zones."

The note was in reply to a "note verbatim," dated Aug. 20, from the Spanish foreign office in Madrid to Eric C. Wendell, in charge of the American Embassy there, saying in part:

"Spanish ports in the power of the rebels as well as those of Cueta and Melilla and the ports of our proscription zone in Morocco, Balcaric and Canary Islands, have all been declared war zones and, therefore, it is not possible for the ships of our fleet to permit the entry into them of merchant ships in order in this way to provinces of Almeria, Murcia, Alicante and Badajoz and supplies to the rebels."

MAGNUS JOHNSON ILL

LITCHFIELD, Minn., Aug. 27—(UP)—Pneumonia, recurring after a serious illness last winter, today threatened the life of former U. S. Senator Magnus Johnson, 64, for years a colorful figure in national politics. His physicians said one lung was "badly inflamed."

LEGION LEADER ELUDES POLICE

Effinger Rides Secretly Into Lima and Floods City With Defense Pamphlets

LIMA, O., Aug. 27 — (UP) — While police continued their unsuccessful search for barrel-chested Virgil H. (Bert) Effinger, the reputed Black Legion chief's plan of battle against removal to Detroit was revealed today.

When Effinger is found, or surrenders, his attorney will file a writ of habeas corpus in common pleas court in Lima, seeking his immediate release.

This was disclosed by Effinger's attorney, Clarence Miller. This move, Miller said, will force Michigan authorities to prove the sufficiency of their charges.

Miller said several days may be necessary to complete a hearing on the sufficiency of the warrant, thus forcing a virtual trial of Effinger before a court in his home town.

Meanwhile, the next move in the man hunt for Effinger rested with Gov. Martin L. Davey.

Davey must decide whether Effinger shall, or shall not, be removed to Detroit. The Lima electrical contractor has been indicted with 21 others on charges of violating Michigan's criminal syndicalism law, in connection with Black Legion activities.

Effinger sauntered out of an extradition hearing room in Columbus Tuesday, and police haven't caught up with him since.

Miller said that although he does not have any idea where his client is, he is sure that "when and if Governor Davey signs the extradition papers, Effinger will come forward to meet the charges."

Meanwhile, Lima police, Allen county deputies, state highway officers and several special investigators from Michigan combed this section of the state for Effinger.

The Black Legion major general, however, safely eluded the dragnet and went his pursuers one better. While he was being sought, he rode back into Lima, and in typical night rider drama, covered the town with a printed pamphlet defending the Black Legion.

SOVIETS JAIL GENERAL PUTNA AS TERRORIST

MOSCOW, Aug. 27—(UP)—The Soviet secret police today arrested General Vitovta Putna, Russian military attaché in Great Britain and formerly second in command of the Red Army in the Far East.

Putna was named in the recent trial of the 16 terrorists as an active member of the Trotsky-Zinoviev group who allegedly plotted the assassination of Stalin.

Police alleged Putna ostensibly deserted the Trotsky group in order to retain his position in the Red Army, but still continued to carry on his "terroristic work."

STRIKE ANCHORS LINER

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 27—(UP)—Three Matson liners were tied up here as "rank-and-file" seamen struck in a labor dispute which may affect the Malolo and the Dollar boat President Taft when they dock late today.

GEORGE W. DERN DIES AT WALTER REED HOSPITAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—(UP)—Secretary of War George W. Dern died of heart disease at Walter Reed Memorial hospital at 10:55 a. m. (EST) today, opening the first gap in the New Deal's cabinet since inauguration of President Roosevelt.

A staff of specialists, headed by Dr. Fritz Meyer, New York heart specialist, worked over the 64-year-old secretary. In a semi-conscious condition, Dern was reported sinking slowly earlier in the day.

Mrs. Dern and their two sons and two daughter seldom left his bedside. Friends said the secretary wife had taken a room in the hospital in order to be near him at all times.

CATTLE PRICES RISE, BUT HOGS SHOW DECLINE

Prices on cattle at the local livestock sale were higher Wednesday, but the hog market was lower.

Cattle receipts totaled 131 head with top prices ranging from $7.80 to $8.90. Last week the highest price was $8.30. Good to choice hogs brought from $11 to $11.15 this week. The top price last week was $11.60. Hog receipts were 408 head.

Ninety calves were run through the sale with good to choice grades ranging from $8 to $9.25.

IMPROVED CONDITION OF BUSINESS ENCOURAGES ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—(UP)—Administration leaders revealed today that they expect improving business conditions to reduce the federal deficit this fiscal year to the lowest point since the New Deal took office in 1933.

Most of the reduction will come from increased revenues through income tax collections, both individual and corporation, officials expect.

Acting Budget Director Daniel W. Bell is putting the final touches on his mid-year revision of the budgetary outlook, which is expected to be made public within the next few days.

Despite loss of the AAA processing taxes, which were estimated to yield $547,000,000 this year, federal government revenue is running ahead of last year and ahead of previous estimates.

Total receipts for the first 54 days of the fiscal year, which began July 1, were $58,000,000 an average of more than $1,000,000 a day ahead of the same period last year.

MR. ROOSEVELT, CRASHES LIGHT, GIVEN WARNING

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 27—(UP)—Policeman Michael Holley didn't know who Mr. Roosevelt was the other afternoon when he warned her about driving through a red light "but I would have warned anybody under the same circumstances," he told the United Press today.

First news that the First Lady had run through a red light came out today in her newspaper column, in which she wrote that she was behind a street car, didn't see the light.

MAN, WIFE AND THREE CHILDREN DIE IN FLAMES

HONESDALE, Pa., Aug. 27—(UP)—A husband and wife and three of their six children were burned to death today when fire destroyed their farm home, near here.

The dead: George Griffen, 64 his wife, Irene, 39; and Mildred, 12; Donald, 9, and Mary Lou, 7.

The other children, Jean, 10, and Fay, 3, were carried to safety by the father who was trapped in the blazing two-story structure when he returned in an attempt to save other members of his family. Another son Carl, 16, was visiting friends at Damascus, Pa.

Neighbors who made an unsuccessful attempt to fight the flames told authorities that Griffen was awakened at about 2:30 A. M. (EST) to discover that virtually the entire two-story structure was in flames.

He quickly picked up two children and carried them to safety. As he returned to get his wife and the other children, he also was trapped in the burning house.

It was believed the fire started in a shed at the rear of the house. The nearest fire fighting equipment was in Honesdale and the house was in ruins a few minutes after the alarm was given.

COLLECTION TO AID SPAIN IRKS FORMER MARINE

LONG BEACH, N. Y., Aug. 27—(UP)—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, retired Marine corps commander, watched 300 persons contribute to a fund for defense of the Spanish government last night.

Then he shouted: "What in hell is it our business what's going on in Spain use your common sense!"

The meeting was under the auspices of the American League Against War and Fascism and it was reported that Butler had been paid $100 to appear, but he criticized its program of aiding the Spanish government unmercifully.

He was called on to speak immediately after the collection.

"Well," he began, "I've been sitting here all night hearing you people get us into another war."

"What in hell is it our business what's going on in Spain? Remember the past wars, the agitation. If we don't attend to our own business we'll have our boys getting their intestines blown out."

AIR RACE FROM U. S. TO FRANCE SET FOR 1937

PARIS, Aug. 27—(UP)—The air ministry decided today to promote a blue ribbon air race from New York to Paris, open to fliers of the world, in commemoration of the tenth anniversary next year of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's New York to Paris solo flight.

Prince George Bibesco, president of the International Aeronautic Federation, accepted the task of organizing the race.

Air minister Pierre Cot and Prince Bibesco expect about 20 starters and believe the winner will reach Le Bourget in less than 20 hours, compared to Lindbergh's time of 33½ hours.

Cot will invite Lindbergh to greet the arrivals at Le Bourget. Prince Bibesco may invite the United States National Aeronautical association to organize the departure from New York.

GERMANY DENIES NEW ARMY AIMS TOWARD FRANCE

PARIS, Aug. 27—(UP)—Germany today assured France through Doctor Hjalmar Schacht, its economic director, that its increase to two years in the period of military service for the Reich's male citizens was not intended as a threat to the French.

Schacht, here to arrange an economic understanding between the two nations, delivered the message on the personal orders of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler.

LOYALISTS HALT REBELS

Stubborn Resistance Met
By Insurrectionists In Big Bid For Victory

LONDON, Aug. 27—(UP)—The French government today proposed establishment of a "diplomatic general staff" in London to supervise execution of the non-intervention pact among European powers with regard to Spain's civil war. London accepted the proposal.

The issue was much in doubt. Harold E. Lunt, United Press correspondent observing the battle from the heights on the right side of the Loder, reported that the rebels in the second day of their attack, were unable to reach headway and the battle apparently was a stalemate until reinforcements.

The military situation in Spain today found the rebels strongly on the offensive, but meeting with stout and stubborn resistance.

The main theater of war was in the Irun-San Sebastian area on the north coast, where the rebels were making a supreme bid for a victory which would permit them to throw their forces in with the army in the guadarrama mountains for a march on Madrid.

Republican Candidate Blasts
1936 Campaign Out

000. President Roosevelt is aboard the "Dust Bowl Special," en route to Bismarck, N. D.

The Republican and Democratic candidates will meet over a drought conference table in Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 1.
On the first tour, Landon spoke in politically doubtful Pennsylvania and New York. He cannot afford to lose either in November.
Significantly, absent from his discussion of taxation was any reference to a sales tax. It is a system "abhorred" by Mr. Roosevelt and ignored by Gov. Landon and, therefore, will not be even remotely an issue in the campaign.

Accused Roosevelt
With the start of his bare fist and hard knuckle campaign last night, Gov. Landon abandoned the generalized approach to national problems. He charged Mr. Roosevelt had violated the principles of common sense in meeting depression emergencies. Hurling at the Roosevelt regime a staccato indictment of mal-administration, he said:

1. "It has piled deficit on deficit."
2. "It has increased our public debt until today the total is equal to two thirds of the annual income of every man, woman and child in the United States."
3. "It has acted as if it were willing to give the whole treasury away, trying to enrich everybody by impoverishing everybody else."

Gov. Landon said talk of "soaking the rich" to pay for government was a sham. He ridiculed what he described as a series of administration promises to balance the budget.

Poor Man Pays
He said taxes on the poor had increased faster than taxes on the rich, until persons with incomes of $25 or less a week are paying 51 per cent of the cost of government — "more than their rightful share."

The Republican candidate's free swinging attack on the Roosevelt administration was the last of three eastern speeches, the first two of which were the occasions for sentimental journeys along the pathways of his youth in West Middlesex, Pa., and Chautauque, N. Y.

A reputation for governmental economy and sound administration delivered the Republican nomination to Gov. Landon almost without opposition. His speech here was precisely pointed toward capitalizing those virtues. Early in his speech the governor levelled at Mr. Roosevelt the charge that he had transgressed the principals of financial common sense.

Financial Program
"There are four of them," he said:
1. "The government must guard and preserve its source of income."
2. "The government must make sure that it gets a dollar's worth for every dollar it spends."
3. "The government must not get into the habit of spending more than it receives."
4. "Finally, the government must prepare for a rainy day."

These principles comprised his text and he discussed them in detail. He applied the principles equally to a government or a family. Arguing that indirect taxes cannot be levied according to ability to pay, Gov. Landon said he had opposed such in Kansas. In the last year of the Hoover administration, he declared, 41 per cent of federal revenue was contributed in hidden taxes by persons whose incomes were not more than take from us. The more it takes people or paying 51 per cent—"an increase of 25 per cent under the Roosevelt administration."

Pay More Than Share
They are paying more than

A "G-Woman"

MARGARET ELEANOR CONNORS, daughter of a clothing company executive in Bridgeport, Conn., has been appointed to the investigating staff of the department of justice—the first "G-Woman" in the United States. Miss Connors, a graduate of Wellesley and at present a student in the Yale law school, will serve as a dollar-a-year woman covering New England territory.

their rightful share of the cost of government he continued.

He estimated that hidden federal taxes aggregated $5 a month for every family in this country. "The more the government wastes the more money it has to take from us. The more it takes from us, the less we can buy for ourselves and the less we have to set aside for emergencies."

Gov. Landon cited the 1936 corporate surplus tax bill as an example, asserting that it prevented corporations from plowing their earnings into their business, thereby curtailing plant expansion and improvement and otherwise curtailing employment directly and indirectly. Except at unbearable cost, he said, the tax bill prevents business building a reserve against further losses and he predicted that slackened trade would bankrupt businesses for lack of the ability to establish adequate reserves. He compared that prospect with that achievement of private industry in paying out $20,000,000,000 more than it took in during the depression to "cushion the depression and keep employees working."

Reserves Approved
"This expenditure was possible," he continued, "only because of reserves created during prosperous years. Yet, by careless, ill-advised tax legislation, this administration is, in effect, forbidding a restoration of the reserves exhausted by the depression."

"The sponsors of this tax law may have thought it was a smart way to appear to 'soak the rich.' What it does is protect the big fellow who still has a reserve, and tie a millstone around the neck of the little fellow."

"This is the most cockeyed piece of legislation ever imposed in a modern country and if I am elected I shall recommend the immediate repeal of this vicious method of taxation."

LEMKE CLAIMS
THREE EASTERN STATES ARE HIS

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 27.—(UP)—Rep. William Lemke, Union party presidential candidate, said today he has Maine, Rhode Island and Massachusetts "in the bag" and that he plans soon to make a "rip-snorting campaign" throughout the remainder of the east.
He added that he was certain of taking the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, California, Illinois and Nebraska in the November election.
His suit rumbled after two hours on the train and a fiery speech against waste, Gov. Landon said the administration was spending "for almost every conceivable thing," and that while the Republican party would be generous in relief and emergency expenditures, "it believes that these funds should be spent without waste and absurdities."

Living Beyond Income
Contending that the nation is living far beyond its income, "in a fool's paradise," the governor said there would seem for a while to be no end to the government's money supply but that "some one, sometime will have to pay the bill."

"We have been told," he said, that all this extravagance will be paid by 'soaking the rich.' That is not possible. The figure of our treasury department show that if we confiscated all incomes in excess of $5,000 a year, it would not be enough to pay for the cost of our federal government. Do not think we have been getting something for nothing as the result of the high government spending in the past three years."

And he gave a prescription for "preparing for a rainy day." The government must prepare this way:

1. Pay its debts in periods of good times.
2. Keep taxes low so there will be reserve tax paying ability upon which to call in emergency.
3. Permit citizens to prosper and so they need not come to the government for aid at the first blast of bad times.

He said Mr. Roosevelt had promised a balanced budget in Oct. 1932, March 1933 and January 1934-35-36.

Sees Tax Boost
"The latest assurance volunteered only 13 days ago," he continued, "repeats the same old story—'business is improving, revenue increasing, no new taxes will be necessary to balance the budget.' How can any one really believe this?"
"The time has come to put an end to these policies. We must return to the principles which we follow in the handling of our own finances. I know that accomplishing all this is not a task that can be completed overnight. But with the help of a courageous country it is a task that can and will be done."

"That is my pledge to the American people."

at Sioux City, Lemke told newspapermen last night:
"Landon don't count anymore. He's just out of the picture."
He remarked that he probably would "overtake President Roosevelt too, on account of the dissen-sion in the Democratic party."

At Sioux City earlier he told a meeting of the Sioux City farmers' union that the administration is "soft-pedaling" the political aspects of the president's drought tour.

"He may be handling the drought situation for the best interests of America," he said, "but there is nothing from campaign headquarters to indicate the true status of affairs."

He accused the movement of "still seeking the wisp of liberalism." Lemke was enroute to a political rally at Marion.

FIVE MILLION MEN NEEDED TO BUILD HOUSES

Ten Years' Work Necessary To Erect All Homes Required In U.S.

HOPE FOR PROSPERITY Construction Seen As Real Lift Back Toward Improved Times

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(UP) The housing industry offers the greatest potential market in history to a nation beating its way out of depression, government experts believe.

The need for more and better housing facilities, and improvement and modernization of existing dwellings, is so vast that economic leaders believe 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 men could be taken from employment rolls and kept at work for ten years in this industry alone.

Government statistics indicate that housing construction offers to the nation now the same ability to lead the way to complete recovery that the automobile industry provided during the 1920-30 decade.

Department of commerce officials estimate conservatively that America needs at least 3,000,000 new dwelling units. Without regard to the need for modernization, this represents a potential market of between $2,000,000,000 and $15,000,000,000.

Plenty of Repairs

In 1934, there were 13,000,000 homes requiring repairs or modernization jobs ranging in cost from $50 to $2,000. The federal housing administration has insured modernization credits for approximately 1,000,000 of these at an average cost per job of $500. Another 12,000,000 houses still need repairing, counting those which have entered that category since FHA began its work. If these average $500 each, a potential market of $6,000,000,000 exists in the modernization field.

There are approximately 30,000,000 dwelling units in the United States. Every year one percent of these become obsolete and unfit to be occupied. Approximately 200,000 new dwelling units are needed every year to take care of increased population. The result is that American needs 500,000 new homes a year to keep pace with housing needs.

Construction Drops

That average was maintained during the 1920-30 decade. Then came depression. For the five years 1930-35, new home construction averaged only 16 per cent of the required amount. Families doubled up, and less than 500,000 dwelling units were built during five years in which 2,500,000 were needed adequately to house the population.

In other words, 2,000,000 new homes are needed to return the nation to the 1929 housing level. At least another 1,000,000 are needed to eliminate slums, lift sharecroppers and other poor farmers out of their shacks, and take care of housing needs caused by splitting up of large families as a result of the urban movement.

Obsolescence Increases

Added to this is the fact that the rate of obsolescence, now about one per cent a year, is increasing rapidly. A great majority of the nation's homes were built during the last 40 years. Within the next decade hundreds of thousands of these will require either replacement of major remodeling.

Population trends play a part, too. There are more persons 14 years old in this country than in any other age group. As these youngsters approach majority and marry, need for new dwellings will increase.

The federal housing administration believes that during the next ten years the new houses needed

Man's Upright Posture Detrimental to Him

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D. "MAN," DEFINED Plato, "is a two-legged animal without feathers." All of his pupils accepted this pronouncement except Diogenes, who right position is an advantage to him. It has made him lord of creation. Perhaps so, but not without some cost.

The worst effects of the erect posture are upon the digestive and respiratory systems. According to their architecture, man was never supposed to be upright. And added strain is put upon these systems in some individuals by the alternate assumption of the erect posture while waking and of the supine posture while sleeping. It is a credit to most of us that the terrible strength of our architecture is able to stand up under the strain.

Our digestive tract was meant to be operated in the horizontal position. The stomach lies sideways, and when we are lying on our backs or on all fours, the exit of the stomach into the intestines (the pylorus) is on a level with the retaining pouch. When we stand up the pylorus is held high, but the lowest level of the pouch sinks down. In people with flabby abdominal muscles, the stomach may indeed sink away down, and when it is filled with a heavy meal there may be considerable mechanical effort involved in getting it through the opening. Again the upright position may cause the large intestine to sag, leading to such functional troubles as constipation or mucous colitis.

Nose, Lungs Need All-Fours Posture

The respiratory system—nose and lungs—are designed so that in the all-fours position they drain secretions and contaminations out of the body. In the erect position, these secretions and contaminations tend to remain in the sinuses and roots of the bronchial tree. Gravity favors the entrance of foreign material into the trachea and lungs, and the stagnation of secretion formed in situ.

As an evidence of the operation of this principle, it is known that such infections as lung abscess tend to occur in the lower lung lobes in man and when, as very rarely happens, they occur in animals, it is in the anterior lung portions. Sinus disease is almost unknown in animals.

Of course, Nature has provided a protective mechanism so far as the lungs are concerned. The glottic reflex is part of it—meaning that the glottis and vocal cords are very sensitive to the presence of foreign particles in the air, and when they are irritated set up a cough to expel them and so protect the lungs. In the windpipe another protective device in the form of the delicate hairs lining the opening of the bronchi and all waving in a current upward toward the mouth tend to rid the lower respiratory system of germs and foreign particles, and help to overcome the mistake of the upright position.

In treating lung infections, the patient is often hung over an apparatus so that the head is lower than the waist, thus promoting drainage by posture.

The whole subject once more emphasizes the importance of rest in the supine position for both digestive and respiratory troubles.

AUSTRALIA ADDS TO AIR DEFENSE

CANBERRA (UP)—Australia is getting increasingly air-minded both for commercial and defensive purposes.

A survey of civil aviation, just made by the Minister of Defense, reveals that Australia now has 411 government controlled aerodromes, 225 commercial pilots and 262 civil airplanes available for defensive purposes.

There are now operating 17,000 miles of regular air routes, with a total annual air mileage of 3,150,000 miles.

The next step in the development of the Australian commercial aviation system is to be the installation of modern developments in night illumination of aerodromes to permit fast night air services between the leading capitals of the commonwealth.

The immediate work to be carried out includes construction of nine new aerodromes between Brisbane, Sidney and Melbourne. Air terminals will have radios for two-way communications.

At present aviation is developing so rapidly that a shortage of pilots is threatened.

As a further indication of the intense activity in aviation, the registration of Australian National Airways has brought to finality Australia's biggest commercial air merger. The new company is composed of the former Holyman's Airway, Melbourne, and the Adelaide Airways.

With Holyman's are associated the Union Steamship Company, of New Zealand, and Huddart, Parker, Ltd., and with the Adelaide Airways the Adelaide Steamship Company and the Orient Steam Navigation Company.

The new company will co-ordinate an inter-capital service of high speed machines with eventual extensions to New Guinea and New Zealand.

CITY ACCEPTS NUDIST COLONY

CAMERA PROVES IMPARTIAL

PASADENA, Cal. (UP) A motion picture camera and Klieg lights set up to obtain evidence against intoxicated drivers proved too much for a member of the police force. He rode a bicycle into the glare of movie lights and when complaints were filed, the movie camera produced unmistakable evidence as to his condition.

CONNECTICUT FAIR GROW

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UP) — Twenty-seven country fairs are scheduled to be held in Connecticut this fall. Contrary to public belief, the number of country fairs is not diminishing, and in Connecticut they have increased in recent years.

Angler Hooks Huge Turtle

KINGSTON, Ont. (UP)—Charles Richards went fishing in Mud Lake and came back with a 50-pound turtle. Richards said a hook caught in the turtle's rear leg, and it put up a half-hour struggle before he pulled it into the boat.

FATAL DISEASE GRIPS TWO BOYS, BALKS DOCTORS

BELLAIRE, O. (UP) — Two boys are slowly dying here from a strange disease that physicians find impossible to treat or diagnose exactly.

The youths are John, 11, and Mike, 9, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Krinenko, of Dilles Bottom, coal mining camp six miles west of here.

The youngsters were stricken when they were 7. Both have been growing slowly worse and now it is impossible for them to sit up in their beds in the Ohio State Hospital for crippled children.

The nearest that physicians have come to a diagnosis is that the disease causes slow deterioration of the brain cells that control the movement of the body. Joints become swollen and in the last stages the patients loses his mind.

Only three other deaths caused by this disease have been recorded in Ohio.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking acids and wastes out of the blood. A healthy person should pass about 2 pints a day and get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes any filters don't work well, waste stays in the body and may become poisonous. It may start nagging backaches, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't let it lay you up.

Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help you to flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

MAKING FOR STRIKE USE STIRS SENATE

Arms Manufacturers Face Investigation Mapped By Liberties Committee

John J. Abt, special counsel to the committee, admitted that "the plans are under serious consideration, but we have not yet decided on our course."

It is expected that the procedure of subpoenaing will continue when the committee resumes hearing Sept. 15. It will deal entirely with the activities of the Burns and Pinkerton agencies in the field of labor relations. The committee opened its investigation with the Railway Audit and Inspection company but no further public testimony is expected for some time on its alleged strikebreaking activities.

Angered by R. A. & L.'s attempts to block it through court restraining orders, refusal of witnesses to appear, and destruction of evidence, LaFollette is now engaged in a campaign to send six officials of the agency to jail for contempt of the senate.

The charge was originally filed in the court of Dennis Kautz, justice of peace of Darby township, and transferred to the local court. Whiteside was committed to the county jail until he settles his account.

Illustrators And Artists At

QUALITIES DESCRIBED

Discord Arises On Eve Of Annual Selection Of Miss America

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 27 — (UP)—Maybe that girl you saw on the beach this summer was the most beautiful one in America
even though your friend disagreed and pointed out some one else.

Results of a poll conducted by the Showmen's Variety Jubilee, to be held here the week after Labor Day to select Miss America of 1936, disclosed that some of the nation's leading illustrators and artists are at odds when it comes to describing the ideal American girl.

Posture is the most important,
according to George B. Petty, noted illustrator, who says he remembers dismissing good looking girls in favor of one who had posture alone. Reasonably broad, sloping shoulders with no accent on the collar bone, a high bust and well-rounded, dimpled elbows and knees are a few of the Petty beauty requirements.

Bony Ankles

"A well-proportioned bony ankle, topped by a full-blown calf is Public Enemy No. 1 in the masculine eye strain," he says. His models on the average meet these requirements: height 5 ft., 5 in.;
bust 34; hips 35; waist 25; ankle
7 1/2; thigh 20 1/2; arm 10 1/2; wrist
6 1/4.

Weight, height or coloring mean nothing to artist William A. Stro-shall as long as the girl is well proportioned. In terms of numbers he prefers them to be: height 5 ft., 7 in.; bust 35; hips 36; ankles 9 1/2;
thigh 18 1/2; arm 9; waist 24 1/2;
honey-colored blonde hair.

"These are only surface qualities but I think personality is the most important human quality," Stro-shall emphasizes. "A woman's charm must exceed her beauty, or she will become very tiresome. She must be well-educated, but not to the point where she makes her male associates feel inferior. The knowledge of one of the arts is desirable."

Beauty May Be Dumb

Charles T. Colner, advertising agency art director, considers the following figures a perfect type:
height 5 ft., 6 in.; weight 125
pounds; bust 34; hips 38; waist 25; thigh 20; ankle 8 1/2; arm 9; wrist 5 1/2; auburn hair. He dis-credits the advantages of social or educational background as necessary to beauty.

No vital opinion on the actual measurements for Miss America of 1936 is expressed by Frances Mc-Fadden, managing editor of a prominent New York magazine.

"She could come from any walk in life, but she should be at least second generation American," Miss McFadden says. "She should be slim, but not a bit boyish in figure.
She would have short, curly hair.
She would wear a lipstick boldly, but the rest of her makeup would be natural in effect. She would wear her clothes with freedom and style. She would radiate health, confidence and good humor."

Puts Skin First

Aside from form, Zoe Mozart,
New York artist, considers a beautiful, fine-textured skin of the same grain and consistency from the top of the head to the tip of the toes as one of the most intriguing of all qualifications.

Miss Mozart would prefer to put mentality at the head of the list.
"Eighty per cent of old-fashioned 'horse' or common sense," she says, "makes a girl interesting and gives her a grand personality."

Miss Mozart says a person's face is the map of the brain, and theregringas" charging that the foreign girls are keeping them out of jobs.

Statuesque Lupita Gallardo, herself a ravishing brunette and a noted motion picture star in Spanish films, champions the cause for her countrywomen.

Hurts Native Talent

"If the American influx continues, our own girls will have to go into other vocations," she maintains. "That would ruin our own theatrical field, which today is so ably portraying our own legends and history and the spirit of our country — something which the American dancers can never do."

"It is not a matter of opposing the American girls just because they are Americans. That would be silly. But it's a serious affair of attempting to preserve our own culture and keep it Mexicanized rather than to submit to Americanization."

In this, the cinema star is supported by thousands of her people who have attempted from time to time to boycott the revues because they seriously believe that the "gringas" are unintentionally missionaries for a "course American outlook on life" which many Mexicans abhor.

So far, the government has ignored the blonde vs. brunette "war". Its only recognition has been to order that government stage censors meet every American company at the border and travel with the revues.

"In the past American
'muchachas' have not always been decorously dressed," one high official explained. "In American slang, we're not taking any chances."

Two Shocking Dancers

Mexico remembers especially a gardenia dance by Sidney Dell Dees in which she plucked off most of the flowers during the dance, and a rhumba by Jo Andrews which was so hot that it would have burned up Cuba." Hereafter the beautiful 'norteamericanas' must adhere to the ideas Mexican show girls have in regard to modesty.

In addition to censors, each troupe will be accompanied by a small squad of army officers. The Americans say that these are to protect the "rubias" against over-anxious swains. But the Mexicans have a different version. The soldiers are not to protect the girls. They are to protect the Mexican people against any demoralizing moves.

LEPROSY FOUND
UNDER CONTROL
IN CANAL ZONE

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—When the United States completed its sanitary cleanup of the Panama Canal Zone preliminary to digging the canal itself, it not only wiped out yellow fever, but virtually ended leprosy as well, according to Dr. H. H. Anderson of the University of California Medical School.

Dr. Anderson, who has completed a leprosy survey in Latin American colonies, says that only three of the 320 lepers admitted to the Palo Seco colony, near Balboa, came from Panama.

The Palo Seco colony, which houses all of the known lepers in Panama, is under the jurisdiction of the health department of the Panama Canal. All new and arrested cases are examined at the Gorgas Hospital, named in honor of the American general who directed the Canal Zone cleanup.

Dr. Anderson found that the mortality in the Palo Seco colony is surprisingly low. Of the 140 lepers who have died since the establishment of the colony, only six expired from the disease itself.

Tuberculosis and nephritis claimed by far the largest number of mortality cases, he reports.
Chaulmoogra esters, strict sanitation, and closely supervised diet constitute the principal curative agencies, he says, although mer-curochrome was found useful for a time.

LITTLE SPAIN, who held out so dogged-ly from hostilities during the World War, now appears destined to contain the spark that will set off the next big conflagration in Europe. We hope not, but what good is hoping against the skilled machinations of such utterly unscrupulous men as Mussolini in Italy and Adolph Hitler in Germany. They are determined to help the Fascists in Spain even at the cost of lives of thousands of young men. And for their excuse in this murderous meddling they cite that France is aiding the Loyalists.

Now, Mussolini, ignoring the pleading of France for a strict neutrality while Spain seeks its own destiny, has massed his entire air fleet, a considerable one, for action in Spain against the Loyalists. And Germany, according to a dispatch, has simply honeycombed Spain with spies to aid Fascist forces. These two nations, with their perverted ideas of national honor, have a strict account they must settle with humanity for the mischief they have already done. Ethiopia is not forgotten, nor is the plight of the Catholics, Jews and liberals in Germany.

The power of conquest has mounted to the heads of Mussolini and Hitler and they find no reason, no humanitarian desire, no honest thought to aid the plight of Europe in its travail. Instead they are prepared to use the inoffensive men and women of those nations as pawns in a tremendous game of life and death. And while we regard with horror the utter callousness of European politics, let us resolve within our own hearts that we will have nothing to do with encouraging such madmen as Mussolini and Hitler.

JESSE OWENS, having done his stint for the Olympic team in brilliant fashion, has become involved in difficulties with Avery Brundage, head of the American Olympic Committee, because of his refusal to accompany the team on a tour of Europe following the games. Owens, it is reported, is to be denied his A. A. U. standing.

The least the American Olympic Committee can do for Owens is to permit him to retire from amateur competition on his own terms. As the outstanding star of the Berlin games he has earned that concession and far more. Nor should any effort be made to restrain him from turning his great athletic abilities to financial advantage.

Owens is now at the zenith of his fame as an athlete. He has brought glory to Ohio State and to his country. In a little while the sharp edge of superiority which he now possesses will be lost, and others will sur-

What with circulation income little more than paying for paper, ink and distribution, newspapers have only one product to sell at a profit, that being space. And a thousand and one press agents constantly beg for free space. Some of them even demand it. Some of them get it, and the other blubs land unopened in the wastepaper baskets.

Read in the paper that Bert Effinger, alleged head of the Black Legion is a fugitive, being wanted in Michigan where he is accused of criminal syndicalism. Met Bert several years ago when he was seeking nomination for sheriff in Allen county where the voters turned thumbs down on his ambition. Saw him frequently about the city and he always appeared much busted with his own affairs. His attorney, Clarence Miller, I recall as one of the defense attorneys in the murder trial of the Dillinger gangsters, Harry Pierpont, Charles Makeley and Russell Clark. It was in the Pierpont trial that Miller afforded me the only laugh I ever obtained out of a trial for murder. Miller asked dismissal of the first degree murder charge against Pierpont because his client was a conscientious objector against the death penalty. Pierpont, Makeley and Clark all were convicted of murder Sher-

The European situation must be worse than most folk thought since Andorra has decided to mobilize a class of reserves to strengthen its national guard of eleven men. Such an army would be large enough for any nation had world intelligence only kept pace with world education. All of us complain about the cost of government, yet few persons realize that the bulk of every tax dollar goes toward payment for previous wars and in preparation for the next one. Nothing should be able to take the conceit out of supposedly civilized folk so quickly as appreciation of that fact.

LONDON MAKES HIT WITH LEADERS
ABOARD LONDON CAMPAIGN SPECIAL—Two things stand out about Governor Alf Landon's campaign special: 1—Lack of noise and commotion. 2—The absence of women in his party. The first is of real significance. The second is largely accidental. The Republican Presidential nominee is not an anti-feminist. He has women assistants in his office in Topeka.

The quiet orderly efficiency of the Landon train is the reflection of a basic characteristic of the man. It is also, incidentally, in marked contrast to the confusion and air of tension and excitement that usually prevail on Presidential campaign specials. The Governor dislikes turmoil and uproar. He likes to work in an atmosphere of calm and order. He is not of an excitable temperament. He never gets ruffled—Landon is always poised and collected. This does not mean, however, that he is not capable of explosions. The Governor can get angry in a very searing manner.

FRIENDLY, LEISURELY PERSON

But, basically, he is not the explosive type. He works, plays and talks in a quiet, friendly and leisurely manner. The scores of party leaders and other guests who accompany the train from State to State are made to feel at ease in a hospitable and homey manner. Nobody is left alone or permitted to feel slighted. Every guest gets a chance to meet Landon personally and to talk to him for a few moments. The Governor does not hold "court" in his private car. He moves through the train, chatting and extending greetings.

He does this without slopping over. Landon is not a back-slapper or baby-kisser. He has a warm, friendly, informal nature, but there is nothing artificial or jazzy about his public manner. Privately or publicly he is the same—quiet, poised, dignified, without being aloof or cold.

People take to Alf Landon instantly in personal contact. There is no "side" to the man.

The candidate is making a big hit with the hundreds of local and State leaders he is meeting on his trip. There is no question that he is going over big with the men and women who come into personal contact with him.

In his back-platform appearance he is not as effective as he might be and obviously needs more experience at this type of campaigning. Doubtless he will show greater facility on his next trip, as he has displayed marked improvement in delivery in his last two speeches over the radio.

pass him in the fields of competition where he is now supreme. It is only sensible that he make the most of his ability and his prestige.

At the best classification of "amateur" in athletics is an elastic one and even includes some whose only visible means of support derives in one way or another from their participation in sports. In the case of Owens the change to professionalism will be made cleanly and openly and the money earned will be as honest as any that could come to him in the working world.

CHAPTER 33
ONE STEP across the threshold into Marian Wilson's room and Gay had forgotten her self-consciousness. She gave a cry of unfeigned delight at the charming picture Marian Wilson made, lying on the chaise longue, in palest pink negligee, and with fresh-cut roses in great quantities everywhere about the sunny room.
"Oh, how lovely!" Gay cried, breathlessly.
Mrs. Wilson smiled, and motioned the girl to a low chair beside her, and though the black eyes continued to study her in their usual critical fashion, Gay didn't feel confused or disconcerted. She sensed a curious softening in Marian Wilson's attitude this morning. A softening not only toward her, but toward life as a whole.
Mrs. Wilson leaned forward and remarked abruptly, "My husband tells me a delay of even five more minutes, and I really owe my life to you, Miss Elwell. It's not easy to thank a total stranger for your life."
"Don't thank me, please, Mrs. Wilson. If you only knew how scared I was. I had all I could do, not to scream and run. When I first saw you, lying there by the pool, I thought you were dead. And then suddenly I knew you weren't. But I was simply terrified to use that needle—I was so afraid I might give you too much, or too little, of the injection!"
Marian drew a deep, faltering breath. "That only piles up my debt. Celeste admits she lost her head completely. If you hadn't been brave, and kept your wits about you, I wouldn't be alive today. Perhaps," she added cynically, "that's not such a great blessing. Being alive, I mean."
Gay broke the pause with a note of shocked disbelief in her voice. "Aren't you glad to be living on such a heavenly morning, in such a wonderful world, and with a husband like the doctor?"
Mrs. Wilson said nothing, for a long moment. Then, characteristically she went straight to the heart of things. "You seem to know my husband extremely well!" She fixed bright, expressive eyes on Gay.
At the undisguised suspicion in her gaze, something within the young girl cried out sharply, but she clung to her self-possession, and answered gently, "Some people you know almost immediately. Others you don't understand. I guess, in a whole life time. I felt Doctor Wilson was a friend when he asked me to fill in at your dinner party. I was perfectly sure he was the best friend a girl could have, the night he lanced my hand, in your house."
Gay stopped short. Far in the back of her mind, the thought had started up that here and now she was being given an opportunity to do Doctor Wilson a good turn. She smiled, and added, "The doctor told you about that, of course?"
Marian Wilson's expression was completely inscrutable. "The doctor—and others—have told me that you were in my home, while I was away. Yes." Her lip curled scornfully. "I don't know the details, and I'm not especially interested."
Gay managed somehow to keep that tranquil little smile. But her thoughts had darted back to that rainy night when Doctor Wilson drove her from the club to his house, and she was recalling the chauffeur, Joseph, who had looked her over with a stealthy, insinuating glance. Could it be that Joseph had hinted things—She must put Mrs. Wilson straight about that episode, immediately.
So she said, "I don't mind admitting that I was a little nervous, all alone with the doctor at that hour. You can't understand, Mrs. Wilson, how hard it is for a girl like me—a working girl, I mean—to keep men from trying."
Marian drew a rose from a crystal vase on the nearby table, and began to tear it apart, petal by petal.
Gay tried to gauge her mood, but couldn't. She dropped a quiet remark into the deepening pool of silence. "Doctor Wilson has never worried me like that. Not for one minute."
After another pause, she added, "He's the sort of man a girl could go to in trouble, and know he'd understand. I think he's the grandest doctor I've ever met."
A sardonic smile played over Marian Wilson's lips. "How kind of you, Miss Elwell!" Her voice was expostulatory.
Part of Doctor Wilson's confidences that night in his library came alive in Gay's memory. "Marian and I are two very different people, lately. We're just fairly good friends, who happen to occupy the same house, but have little else in common."
So now Gay found it painfully difficult to know what to say. "It's easy to believe in people when they're wonderful and kind like the doctor and Mr. Keenan and Miss Randolph, and a few others I know. If I really saved your life, Mrs. Wilson, I'm terribly glad—for your sake, and the doctor's too. A man's so helpless when he loses his wife."
Marian laughed out loud. "Are you being sarcastic?"
Gay returned the glance with complete candor. "Indeed I'm not, Mrs. Wilson!"
The older woman rested her head against the cushions and looked at Gay with an air of deepening interest, then said, abstractedly, "Life's a queer, complicated affair. You remind me in some ways of a young girl I used to know—quite intimately. She was poor, the daughter of a country doctor, whose only ambition was service. But the girl had other ambitions—wealth, social position, travel, especially fun and no responsibilities. She got it all, except happiness, by an ambitious marriage."
"But the man she married was a worker, and she was a shirker. She learned after a while that the excitement of buying everything you want in shops, burns out. She learned, too, that there are a few things you can't buy. She found that marriage without love is detestable—life has no meaning." She broke off with a queer, breathless laugh, and her face looked pale under the rouge.
"Sorry to bore you like this, Miss Elwell, but as I said, you've made me think of this girl as I haven't in years. Perhaps because—" Mrs. Wilson again went straight to the point, "because you're going to make the same mistake exactly."
At Gay's puzzled expression, she made a gesture of impatience. "In plain words, then, you're planning to marry Tim Keenan's money."
"I'm not planning anything of the sort!" Gay blurted out, and then could have bitten her tongue off for her blunder.
"I have eyes in my head, Miss Elwell! Let's be frank with each other. It's rather a nasty trick on Tim Keenan's part, the moment Eleanor's back is turned, and after all these years—I shouldn't be panning Tim like this, but you both deserve it and more. It's low and hateful!"
Hurt pride and indignation got the better of Gay. She forgot her promise to Tim; forgot their "business contract", everything, in her eagerness to justify herself to Marian Wilson, whose good opinion she craved with a passion that amazed her.
She cried, "You're wrong! I'm only playing a pretend game with Mr. Keenan." And flinging discretion to the winds, she disclosed their plan to arouse Eleanor's jealousy during her absence.
Gay saw surprise, belief, and amused interest, glow warmly in the large black eyes fixed upon her. And suddenly she glimpsed something else that was far more vital: the real Marian Wilson, loving, generous, meant for wife and mother, but armored by life's disillusion with arrogance and selfishness.
For several moments, Marian continued to study Gay with searching intensity. Then she gave way to quick, unaffected laughter. "You're telling the truth! What a gorgeous joke on all of us! And how you've outsmarted Grace Larrimore. That's the funniest part of the whole thing—her writing to—But my word, I mustn't tell!"
Gay guessed immediately that Mrs. Wilson was referring to Grace's letter of warning, but she smiled and said nothing.
At the end of another quarter of an hour, Gay sprang to her feet. "I've tired you," she said remorsefully, at the white strained look on the older woman's face.
Marian detained Gay with an imperious gesture. "You've done me more good than you can ever possibly understand. You've given me back something precious, that I thought was lost—and I'm more grateful to you for that, than for saving my silly, useless life. And listen, Gay—I want you to dine with me—us, the doctor and myself, some evening next week."
Gay accepted the invitation joyfully, and that was the beginning of a deep and loyal friendship between the two women.
She was running down the broad central stairs, when she heard someone call her name.
"Gay—is that you? Come here a moment!"
She cried, "Coming, Wayne!" and hurrying across the hall, found him in the library, where the shades and curtains were drawn, excluding every ray of morning sunlight.
Gay groped her way through the darkness of the room, to the chair where Wayne was sitting, eyes swathed in bandages—a rather forlorn figure in spite of his cheerful greeting.
"Good morning, Gay! I recognized your steps, flying downstairs. Sit down a while, and amuse the invalid."
"I'd be the invalid, if you hadn't taken the punishment yourself." Gay tried to imitate his light note.
"Don't be silly. It wasn't you who upset the apple cart—or the tray, to be more exact. Besides, I'll be as good as new before very long. What's two weeks in a dark room? I've been needing a vacation, anyway." He settled himself more comfortably in the depths of his chair. "What have you been doing with yourself, all morning? Getting some extra beauty sleep?"
He had snapped open his cigaret case, and was extending a cigaret and his lighter toward Gay. "Will you do the honors for me?"
Awkwardly, she lit the cigaret and set it between Wayne's lips, as she replied, "I've been talking with Marian Wilson."

CONTRACT BRIDGE

A DISAPPOINTING RESULT OF COURSE all methods of valuing hands are based upon what will average to occur, while results in actual play of special hands vary from far above average to much below average expectations.

Each of four suits safely stopped twice, even against leads going through them, with a total of six quick tricks does, however, raise hopes of making more than a bare game at no trumps.

Of the 15 pairs of experts we had to meet the evening the above hand was dealt, Edward Hynes, Jr., and Samuel Fry were the highest ranking. They opposed us on this somewhat critical hand. J. N. S. Brewster, Jr., sat North as my partner. Bidding went: South, 1-Heart; North, 1-Spade; South, 2-Clubs; North, 2-Diamonds; South, 2-No Trumps, showing inability to support partner's; North, 3-No Trumps.

As we had bid all four suits, Mr. Hynes was bound to make an opening lead from great heart strength or through one of the two suits bid by dummy. He led the 3 of diamonds, without in the least indicating the number held of that suit. Of course dummy played low. East's Q won. Back came the 2 of hearts, through its bidder. Declarer's 4 lost to the 10, and the Q was led back. The K took the trick.

The 10 of spades was covered with West's Q. Dummy's K won. The lead of a J up to four headed by only A-Q is not an ideal lead, but it had to be done in clubs. West was in with his K. He led the 4 of spades, which dummy's J took. It was time to rid opponents of the Ace of diamonds, insuring us game, and the 10 of diamonds lost the fourth defensive trick, which also was the last one. The 3 of spades was led at the eighth trick. Dummy's Ace won, leaving East with a high spade. Dummy's K-J of diamonds were good for two tricks. The Ace and Q of clubs took the two next tricks and the Ace of hearts won our ninth trick for game, but we could not have won an extra trick, except by taking too great a chance in clubs, risking defeat if the play failed. It was very disappointing.

At the third trick, before either the Q of spades or the Ace of diamonds had been located, South could have led a low club toward dummy. West would have played low. As a double-dummy proposition the 8 of clubs could have been played to win and the J of clubs given to West, but had East won the trick, and had he held the Ace of diamonds, his return lead of a heart would have given defenders 2 heart tricks, 2 diamond tricks and at least 1 club trick, defeating the game contract.

Victor Arden Directs New "Hot Dates in Music" Program Over Station WLW

PLAYED CALLIOPE WITH SHOWBOAT TO OPEN CAREER

New Series of Dramas Will Open Over WLW In September

It's a long climb up the musical scale from playing the calliope on a Mississippi snowboat to directing some of radio's biggest musical shows but that's the climb Victor Arden, musical director of the new "Hot Dates in Music" program has made.

Although most of Arden's work is now as a radio orchestra leader, he probably is best known as being half of the famous two-piano team of Ohman and Arden. He met Ohman in 1919 when both were making piano rolls and the two became the first popular piano team along Broadway.

The team began broadcasting back in radio's early days and in 1929, when radio was swinging into its full stride, Arden began conducting orchestras in addition to his double piano work.

"Hot Dates in Music," supplanting the popular "Hot Dates in History" program, is now heard over WLW at 9:30 p. m., Tuesdays and Fridays. The new program is built around a fascinating guessing game, for which prizes are offered on each broadcast.

It will dramatize in words and music the great songs of the world. Listeners guess the song titles and are awarded prizes. Arden personally directs the program.

Two popular dramas, "True Story Court of Human Relations" and "True Detective Mysteries," will be heard over WLW early in September.

"True Story Court of Human Relations," which last season was one of the most popular dramatic offerings of the Nation's Station, returns to the air Sept. 6. It will be heard from 5:30 to 6 p. m., Sundays.

"True Detective Mysteries," stories based on actual happenings and crimes, will be dramatized over the Nation's Station from 8:30 to 9 p. m., Tuesdays, beginning Sept. 15.

Long a favorite of radio audiences, "True Story Court of Human Relations" will be presented by members of the WLW dramatic staff, headed by such stars as Jean Jostyn, Florence Golden, Bess McCammon, Harry Lang, Louise Squire and others. The same program will be presented over an NBC network Friday nights, although the WLW show will originate at the Nation's Station.

"True Detective Mysteries,"

new to WLW audiences, also will feature stars of the WLW dramatic cast.

BRIDGE LAND CONDEMNATION HEARING SLATED FOR MONDAY MORNING

JUDGE YOUNG TO GIVE RULING ON PROTESTS

Awards Made By County Commissioners Facing Legal Test

JURY IS TO DECIDE

Sheriff Instructed To Draw Panel of 16 Names For Possible Service

Hearing on the Hargus creek bridge land condemnation cases will be started before a jury in probate court Monday at 9 a. m.

The date for the hearing was set by Probate Judge Charles C. Young. Notices were issued Thursday to the clerk of courts and sheriff to draw 16 names from the jury wheel. Twelve will serve as jurors.

The hearing is on appeals on awards allowed by the county commissioners for damages and land appropriated for the new bridge under construction at W. High street and Island road.

Interested parties are Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Bales, Fred Clark, Australia Calloway, Jack, Dan and Minnie Redman, Minnie Redman Calloway, and the heirs of Margaret Redman.

Appeals were filed by Mr. and Mrs. Bales, Jack and Daniel Redman and Australia Calloway. The Redman heirs asked $150 for land and damages but the commissioners allowed them $75 for land and nothing for damages.

Mr. and Mrs. Bales were awarded only $500 when they asked $2,000.

Work has been underway on the new bridge for several weeks. The structure is to be a 60-foot span with a 24-foot roadway. The project includes relocation of approximately 300 feet of roadway to eliminate a sharp curve.

It is being constructed under WPA with the government paying $21,920 and the county $7,840.

BROADCASTING HAS BIRTHDAY, 16 YEARS OLD

DETROIT, (UP)—Sixteen years ago this week, Dr. Lee de Forest, eminent radio scientist, installed in the offices of the Detroit News what he called a radiophone. This event marked the opening of America's first broadcasting station and many people thought the venture foolish.

Dr. de Forest has returned to Detroit to see, as he explained it, "what type of tree has grown from my acorn."

He found, instead of the table full of scattered apparatus he had left, a new $1,000,000 home for the Detroit News, station, WWJ, and a new 5,000 watt transmitting station declared by engineers to be among the most modern in the country.

The new station, erected directly across the street from the News building, will be dedicated late in September. The transmitting station has been in operation for two months.

In 1920, de Forest's radio could have been placed conveniently on anyone's kitchen table and there would have remained enough room to prepare a cake or pie. The three men who operated the station had little work to do. Their microphone looked like an ordinary telephone. Whenever it was desired to broadcast phonograph records—the "friend in need" of early broadcasting days—the phonograph was shoved up close to this "mike." An old-fashioned gramophone horn, held against the "mike," bridged almost all of the intervening distance. Thus was the music from the phonograph fed into the transmitter. Power was derived from a 150 watt, 500 volt direct current generator driven by a motor of only one-quarter horsepower.

Girl Athlete Who Became a Man Wants to Marry And Become Father of "Large, Healthy Family"

By HARRY LEVIN
Central Press Writer

NEW YORK, — "I am looking forward with much eagerness to a happy marriage and becoming the father of a healthy and large family."

So 23-year-old Zdenka Koubkova, Czechoslovakian holder of the world's 800-meter record for women runners, told your astonished Central Press reporter in an exclusive interview at the swanky New York night club, where he is to perform on a treadmill for Gotham's wonder loving cabaret diners.

Clad in white sport trunks and cotton jersey and snugly fitting tennis shoes, with blond hair slicked back neatly, Mr. or Miss (take your choice) Koubkova trotted in with his manager-interpreter, Hermann Taussig, and sat down, right leg crossed over the left, in very feminine fashion.

"Now, what would you like to know. My manager will interpret," he said very pleasantly in a rather deep voice.

"When did you first begin to realize you weren't a girl?" I asked.

Koubkova smiled in amusement. A gold-capped tooth in the back of his mouth gleamed.

"When I was about 14," he said. "I suddenly realized I was different from the rest of my girl chums. I liked to play with boys and compete with them in games. I wore girl's clothes and hated them. I always was athletic. People in my home town in Czechoslovakia didn't think I was girlish. My parents knew about the change in me, but in the beginning it wasn't serious enough to think of bothering about operations."

Koubkova flexed his tanned arms so that the bicep muscles rippled like waves. He patted his sturdy legs and thighs and tilted his chair in gay humor.

Goes Sightseeing

The manager interjected the comment that his protegee was a little ashamed of this publicity but it was apparent that the Czech boy-girl runner was immensely pleased at his first visit to America, and that went for interviews, too. From the time that Koubkova, clad in a dark, well-fitting suit, posed for ship's photographers upon his arrival here a few days ago, Gotham for him has been one endless round of sightseeing and he hasn't missed a thing, he tells one.

Life back in Czechoslovakia, too, has been a round of surprises, said Koubkova, since he journeyed from his home in Bruenn to the nation's capital, Prague, to break 14 Czech women's track records during 1934 in running, high jumping and hurdling.

Several years ago his "masculinization" speeded up in tempo. His muscles grew tougher, bigger. His voice deepened and he began to shave. He was very proud but a little startled, for he still dressed like a woman. By that time he was tired of female clothing, though he had always drawn the line at high heels.

"I would never wear those things," Koubkova said, half defiantly.

Girl Friend Is Student
Then Koubkova fell in love. "She's a law student at the Uni-

Zdenka Koubkova... used to be a girl versity of Prague," he said, "but please, I cannot tell you her name. She plans to arrive here in about two months. And then after my second and last operation, we will be married." He smiled very proudly while he was telling your reporter that.

"It was all because of her," he went on, "that I decided to have the operations. 'How can two girls marry?' she asked me, and so I consulted the surgeon, who promised me that everything would be all right.

"Then a few months ago, after the operation, Koubkova applied to the Czech provincial government registry office to have his sex legally changed to that of male on the records. Pending the final operation, Koubkova is still theoretically a female. His passport, issued two years ago, contains a photograph showing him with bobbed hair and wearing a stylishly cut fur coat. But to facilitate his present travels, Czech immigration officials have added the notation that "the bearer is now officially a man." After he becomes a full-fledged male, his new name will be Zdenek Koubek.

A curious twist of the sex transformation is that Koubkova, still a girl at 19, when all males are automatically drafted into the army, will probably be the first healthy young man in all Czechoslovakia to avoid military service because he was "ineligible."

Handsome Either Way
Koubkova is very handsome either as a male or female. One observes that the changing sex characteristics have given him a charm which Czech movie producers, too, noticed. He has been given several offers to appear before the camera and he has Hollywood aspirations, too, he lets you know.

Koubkova throws his head back like a girl when he is amused, and like a girl he still forms a lap from an "imaginary skirt" by opening and swinging his tanned, muscular legs to and fro. His hands, though recently growing in size, still are soft and trim looking, and he proudly exhibits his engagement ring on a finger.

"How do I like America?" Koubkova continued, "I want to stay here and live if I can make a living for myself and my wife-to-be. It's wonderful. Would I like to be a woman again? No. She is nothing. A man, a man is everything. There is not a thing in the whole world that is not open to him. I'm beginning to find that out."

And flexing his rippling muscles, he shook hands, bowed from the waist, and skipped out to practice on his treadmill, waving a tanned arm in goodbye.
